Current Market Report

The immediate slaughter market, meaning fats, cows, and bulls seems to be steady to stronger. Good cows are reaching 1.10-1.14 on the very top, and good kill bulls on the very top end have broke the 1.40 mark, meanwhile fats are crowding 1.80. Feeder cattle seem to have picked up some as well, which is typical for the seasonal trend. As numbers tighten up, feedlots try to get their hands on the few cattle that are around. Forward prices look solid as of now, although Feedlots are tenuous with their outlook; they do not see grain costs coming down much, even though the prairies have seen some much needed moisture in the past 2-3 weeks. Some think we have seen our worst days as cattlemen for the distant future, and some say we haven't seen the bottom yet! So it really depends which side of the coin you are on! One thing is for certain, we will have a lot more forage this fall to hold our cattle through the winter months, and with the recent moisture we have all seen that started the first week of March, all we need is a little bit of heat and everyone's haystacks should be full once again. The heat will make all of us breathe a much needed sigh of relief! A couple things to keep in mind is the uncertainty in our economies here in Canada, and south of the border. With rising interest rates and governments trying to cool down this overheated economy, one has to wonder once the consumer has less disposable income, how many dollars are they willing to spend on the most expensive and best protein out there, which is of course beef! Cow numbers continue to drop, and we will have less numbers to go around, but where will the demand be if the consumer is beaten down! Those are just a few things to think about when making some decisions for your operation, one must keep a long term view in this industry when making decisions for tomorrow.
